

5. Recommendations for tobacco control initiatives at local level: the Danish Health Promotion Packages on tobacco.

In Denmark the municipalities in 2007 were delegated the responsibility of creating healthy settings and establishing disease prevention and health promotion services for their citizens. The purpose of the health promotion packages on tobacco developed in 2012 is to give the municipalities an evidence-informed tool to assist municipal decision-makers and health planners in setting priorities, planning and organizing local tobacco control and prevention initiatives of high quality. The presentation will focus on the system of recommendations at two levels and will give an overview of the developments since 2012 based on a recent survey among the municipalities.
